MASSACRED THE MAFIA.

ELEVEN MEN KILLED BY A NEW ORLEANS MOB.

Terrific Scenes of Blood-Accident by the Enraged Mob-A Verdict of Acquittal of the Accused Mafia Too Much for the Crescent City-Many of the Leading Citizens Lead in the Revenging Mission of Death.

Eighty thousand infuriated citizens rose up in their fierce wrath at New Orleans and wreaked summary vengeance on the men who they considered guilty of the murder of Police Chief Hennessy. The excitement throughout the city over the miscarriage of justice in the case of the alleged Sicilian assassins leaped beyond all restraint. The parish prison was surrounded, the doors burst open and the Sicilian assassins taken out and lynched. Some were shot; the others were hanged. Joseph Marchese, Manuel Politz, Antonio Marchese, who is not dead, but mortally wounded, Antonio Bagnetto, Rocco Gruber, James Carusi, Loretto Comite, Pietro Mosastoro, Louis Thahina, Frank Romero, Charles Friend, and Soreto Coniz, who were charged with complicity in the murder of Hennessy, but who have not been tried, were also killed in their cells.

The mob Marchese, Matrangola Incorona, who had been acquitted, were spared. The verdict of the jury, in sentencing six of the accused prisoners and reporting a disagreement as to three others, was received with general disapproval and rage and for a time it was apprehended that an attempt would be made to wreak vengeance upon the prisoners at once, but this was averted for the time. The evening newspaper extras were filled with intimations that the jury had been corrupted. It was asserted that not less than $75,000, and probably as much as $100,000, was contributed by Italians all over the country for a defense fund. Thousands of dollars, it was said, came from Chicago and New York, and farm laborers were taxed $3 a head. These statements only served to infuriate the enraged populace still more and as a consequence a mob of one hundred prominent citizens, for a mass meeting to assemble at the City square, to take steps to remedy the failure of justice in the Hennessy case. "Come prepared for action," was the concluding injunction in the call.

The mob congregated at the City square in broad daylight. Mr. Parkerson spoke first. He said that he faced the people of New Orleans to denounce the most infamous act which was committed upon the most revolting crime in the criminal annals of any community. That act was the finding of the jury in the murder trial and the four assassins of the chief of police. "I desire to say," he said, "that I am a plain American citizen, and as such and as a good citizen I am here."

The crowd was yelling itself hoarse, and Judge William Claggett, the newly elected Senator from Idaho, is likely to have a hard road to travel, owing to the circumstances of his election. The Legislature first elected three instead of two Senators. McConnell and Shown were elected to fill the long and the short terms and Dubois for that which has just begun. Since then the friends of Judge Claggett effected a coalition with the Democrats and elected him in the place of Dubois. The election of Dubois is considered by Senator Edmunds to be legal and it is probable that the question of the legality of Claggett's election will be raised in the Senate.

Judge Claggett is a native of Maryland, but has been in the West since 1850. He was elected delegate to Congress from Montana in 1871, defeating the present Governor, J. K. Toole, by 431 votes. He has resided in Montana, Nevada, Idaho and Utah. He is a lawyer, but is interested in mining. The Mormons, who have influence in Idaho, supported him against Dubois.

Lots of Timber Yet. Says a Western lumberman: "The signing of a contract for 600,000 feet of pine in Minnesota should serve as a reminder that the forest of America is fast giving out. I have been handling lumber by the 10,000 feet for two-thirds of a lifetime, but the figures in this deal took me by surprise, and it was some time before I could realize them. The supply of lumber in the North is steadily giving out, as the figures for Michigan in particular show. Ten years ago the annual output of product was just about the size of the great Minnesota contract just signed, for single companies, but the aggregate totals for 1890 barely reached these figures. We are lavish and extravagant with our lumber now, but at the present rate of consumption there will be precious little left to consume a quarter of a century hence, even making allowance for what we can draw from Mexico after Mr. Blaine's reciprocity treaty has been drafted and signed."

It is with a wail in a street car as with a riddle—one dislikes to give it up.

LIVES AND SHIPS LOST.

GRAVE FINANCIAL CRISIS IN FRANCE.

The Last Descendant of Christopher Columbus May Attend the World's Fair—Suffering and Dying—Stock in Republic No Star Prodigal.

At London information is received of terrible damage done to shipping by the recent storm. Wrecks are reported all along the coast and news has just been received that the steamer Trinidad was lost during the storm and all her crew and passengers drowned. So far eighty persons are reported drowned. The British ship Dryad, Captain Thomas, bound from Shields to Valparaiso, has also been wrecked off Start Point. Her crew, consisting of twenty-four men and officers, have been drowned. The Dryad was a vessel of 1,355 tons and was owned by J. B. Walmsley, of that city. A foreign steamship, the name of which is unknown, was wrecked off Start Point, near Dartmouth, Devonshire, England, during the recent blizzard. All the crew and passengers were drowned. Among the seamen lost off Start Point was the Lanesdale. Four of her crew were drowned. Her captain was saved. The schooner Lizzie Ellen was also lost and the crew were drowned. Cornwall continues infested from the rest of England. Many wrecks are reported to have occurred on that coast, and at Land's End a number of people have been frozen to death. Lately, numerous bodies have been sent to clear the railroad lines in Devonshire and Cornwall, where the snow drifts have piled up so heavily that cutting twelve feet deep have to be made. The loss to farm stock is enormous, and will entail much suffering among the farmers who have already lost considerable money by the terrible weather experienced at the end of last year.

Then on the other side of the prison Bagnetto, one of the assassins, was brought out already in the throes of death from a bullet wound in the head. A rope was thrown over the limb of a tree, and he, too, was hoisted in the air. His face, covered as it was with blood, presented a horrible sight as the brains oozed forth.

Police Officer Herron, who was in the prison, was shot in the neck, and he is the only one outside the prisoners who suffered.

After the work was done Mr. Parkerson addressed the dense mob of citizens and advised them to disperse. They frantically applauded, and when he finished carried him bodily on their shoulders. The multitude participating in the avenging work then marched to the canal street shooting and waving handkerchiefs in the air.

Mass meetings of infuriated Italians are being held throughout the country, and it is feared that the end is not yet.

SENATORS FROM NEW STATES.

The Men Chosen by South Dakota and South Dakota has selected J. H. Kyle to take the place of Mr. Moody in the United States Senate. He was chosen as a compromise candidate by a combination of Farmers' Alliance men and Democrats. The new Senator is only 38 years of age, and began life as a Congregational minister. He was born at Xenia, Ohio, and graduated in his twentieth year from Oberlin College in 1873. He then studied theology in the Western Theological Seminary at Allegheny, Pa., and came out in 1882. He officiated as pastor of a church in Salt Lake City. He went to Dakota five years ago and is now Financial Secretary of Yankton College. He has taken an active part in politics, and served a term in the Dakota Senate.

Judge William Claggett, the newly elected Senator from Idaho, is likely to have a hard road to travel, owing to the circumstances of his election. The Legislature first elected three instead of two Senators. McConnell and Shown were elected to fill the long and the short terms and Dubois for that which has just begun. GENERAL PALMER WINS.

THE ILLINOIS SENATORIAL CONTEST ENDED.

Moore and Cockrell, with the Democrats—Taubeneck Votes for Senator, and the Republicans for Lindsey—Exciting Contest.

General John M. Palmer is a United States Senator. The contest in the Illinois joint assembly continued through seven weeks to a day, and took 154 ballots. It was known early in the morning by everybody that Palmer would be elected unless some accident interfered, and all Springfield went to the Capitol to try to secure admittance to the House floor and galleries. Those who could not get inside remained in the rotunda and satisfied their curiosity with looking at the cheering inside. The Republicans knew they were beaten, and accepted their defeat with complacency. No attempt was made in either house to do any business. The members sat about in groups, telling stories, singing songs, and exchanging experiences. There was good feeling everywhere, and Republicans and Democrats mingling on both sides.

Two hours before the joint assembly met, the galleries and the floor of the House began to fill. An hour before the battle broke, the galleries were packed in every space apart for visitors. The Republicans who were in their seats began to sing, "We Are Going Home." The doorkeeper announced the Senate, and shortly after that body was admitted.

BLIZZARD IN BRITAIN.

Many Lives Lost by Marine Disasters—Railroad Traffic Throughout England Almost Halted and Communication with the Continent Suspended for Thirty-six Hours.

The severest storm known in the British Isles, and on the adjacent seas, for twenty years, raged for two days, resulting in the loss of many lives, the destruction of a vast amount of property, and an unexampled blockade of travel. In London traffic was impeded, the streets piled up with snow, and the wind blew a hurricane. Railways were blocked and telegraph wires down in all directions. The snow covered the south of England in some places to the depth of eight feet. From Plymouth, Devon, Shrewsbury and ports along the east coast as far north as Newcastle, come reports of wreck and disaster. Five fishing smacks have been wrecked off Hastings, and three persons drowned. The coast-guard boat, while attempting to effect the rescue of the distressed seamen off Sandgate, capsized, and seven of those on board were drowned. At police headquarters several persons were reported missing, and it is feared they perished in the snow-drift. A rumor was in circulation that a channel steamer had gone down between Dover and Calais, and that all on board were lost. The Channel service was suspended, and no communication was had with Paris for thirty-six hours. The tremendous force of the wind, which breached the sea wall which supports the tracks of the Great Western Railway between Dawlish and Exeter, in Devonshire. An engineer who left the locomotive fast in a drift and attempted to reach a place of shelter was discovered and rescued before he was discovered and rescued before the blizzard extended from the Channel to the North Sea. Several manufacturing establishments were compelled to shut down on account of the snow blockade. All field work was abandoned, and the loss to farm stock will undoubtedly be immense. The banks of the Thames from Richmond down were inundated; the wagons in Covent Garden Market were so snowed up as to be inaccessible, and in consequence supplies became scarce. In the poorer quarters of the city this caused serious suffering. On the docks work was partially suspended. The yacht Sappho, from Flushing for Harwich, while making the latter port at midnight, struck on a rock, and Mr. Macfarlane, of Glasgow, her owner, was washed overboard and drowned. The steamship Victoria's passage across the Channel was a memorable one, and the weather was the worst known in the history of the stormy twenty miles of water which separates France from Dover. Forty-nine passengers were looked down from the decks in the Victoria, but of these twenty-eight determined to remain on terra firma when they saw the sort of night it was. Among these passengers were her royal and imperial highness the Duchess of Devonshire, and her husband, the Duke of Devonshire. The Duchess, as soon as the steamer left the harbor she began to experience the full force of the blizzard, while the snow, as it whirled around, was almost blinding. The storm rose rapidly and huge seas which swept the decks reached as far as the ladies' cabin. To make matters worse, the officers lost their bearings, and the engines were slowed down, as the Victoria was then believed to be near Cape Grisnez. Suddenly she grazed a rock, and the engines stopped. The soundings showed that she was in fifteen fathoms of water. The engines were continued running slow until in the morning, when the blizzard was at its height, and the anchors were cast. Shortly after this a French steamer, the Victoria, and the ship, which remained at anchor until the weather cleared and it was found she was near Calais. The passengers all suffered severely from the cold.

The female bison at the Zoological Gardens has just given birth to a calf. This is a matter for some rejoicing, since the American bison is getting very rare. It is even now as rare, or nearly so, as the European relative, the aurochs, and not so very long ago it was abundant on the plains of North America. The calf is a reddish-brown color, like the calf of an ordinary domestic cow, and not a bit like its black, shaggy mother.

If the theory is true that every shade and variety of color has its meaning, this is very extraordinary. If the colors of the adult bison have a relation to its usual surroundings, why should the calf be colored differently? One would have thought that what was sauce for the goose was also sauce for the gosling. It has, however, been suggested that such differences between the parents and their offspring are to facilitate recognition, and it is noticeable that the young of many animals are, as in this case, more brightly colored than their parents, and therefore, more conspicuous in the dusk or twilight.—London Daily News.

Never Speaks to the Groom. Between the coachman and the groom there exists a chasm in the social regime of the household of the noble statesman as wide as the gulf between 400 and 401. With the footman it is different. The latter is a house servant—the especial quarry of his mistress. The footman never joins the coachman on the front seat, unless his mistress rides within. One of his duties, in fact, is to take her ladyship's orders and issue them to his companion who holds the reins. His wages will rate almost with the coachman's. The latter may converse in a guarded way with the footman, with the groom never. He is a creature that worthy to alight and open the door with an air of immense superiority. As for hackmen and cab drivers—for their lack of style in driving, for their want of finesse in personal appearance, and comparatively dilapidated assemblage, he can only assume an air of lofty indifference and unapproachable severity.

Sunday Reflections. Fortune is not more fickle than are her woosers. Now is the time to do whatever you dislike to do. Dyspepsia fears a buckskin more than a pill box. Opportunity is a slow coach that seldom overtakes, but may readily be overtaken.

CURIOUS AND INTERESTING INFORMATION.

The underground water supply of Western Kansas possesses some features peculiar to itself. Prof. Gregory says that the most common of these are the stretches like the half of an Indian arrow, from the west line of Nebraska curving downward through the Platte country, across the Republican and Smoky Hill districts, and through the Arkansas river valley, and the fact that within this are may be found a number of deep pools, often spoken of as springs of water, and sometimes as natural wells. This water does not flow from these—at least not in any considerable quantity—but is an unlimited supply of water. One such is noted in Greeley County, and another in Kearney, another in Seward, and others of the same sort are scattered over this region. The Arkansas river, near the line between Kearney and Hamilton counties, is of great depth. Local reports have

It is believed that they are eroded deep enough to receive a supply of this underground flow. The water of the streams is not good for drinking, but is known as the perma carboniferous. Silence was not, however, long maintained, the station master breaking out with the question, "I wonder who that swell

THOUGHTS WORTHY OF CALM REFLECTION.

Will ye not show me when of us is for the king of Israel? Is there an enemy in the camp? Or why is it that, in spite of our plottings and clever designs against the Lord's elect, the trap is never sprung, or springing, the bird is not inside the snare? Yes, there is some one for Israel, but not "of us."

Improvement.

The first improvement which we promised last week, is in your hands, and we commend it to your careful consideration. The make-up will be changed somewhat and made better in future issues, and you shall have the AVAUNCH, an exponent of the advantages of Northern Michigan, which will jealously guard your interest.

Come in and tell us what you think of the change, and show your interest by getting your neighbor to subscribe.

There is no man in the country sawing wood faster than Hon. James G. Blaine. Keep your eye on him in '92.—Quincy Herald

Democratic state treasurers have robbed nine states of $2,850,000 within a few years; but all together are not so mean, or so damaging to their party, as the senatorial steal at Lansing.—Det. Journal.

The Patron members of the senate have issued a ukase advising their friends, sympathizers and fellow farmers and laborers to vote for the increase in Attorney General Ellis' salary, on the ground that it will be economy to do so.

Let the Michigan legislature refuse to appropriate money for the National G. A. R. encampment in Detroit next August, if they dare. The old soldiers and the friends of the old soldiers—the Republican party—will repay the spite of soldier's hater at the polls.—West Branch Herald.

C. W. Johnson, of Coldwater, his father, his son and his dog each weigh 138 pounds.—Det. Tribune. This item is a sample of the trashy material furnished by the Tribune. Its editorials are "senseless" and its typographical appearance is horrid.

James G. Blaine is the hero of the hour. While the Democrats are wildly clamoring for free trade and "unsound money," he, the great constructive statesman, is flouting the way for reciprocity with Brazil and other South American states.—Ann Arbor Register.

How many people know that the present silver law is practically free coinage of all silver produced by American mines, that is to say, that the 4,500,000 ounces of silver bullion which the Treasury Department is compelled by law to buy each month is more than the average amount produced by all of the American mines? That shows how unfriendly the republican party is to silver, doesn't it?

The fact that after the first day of April this country will enjoy the fruits of reciprocity with Brazil, under the terms provided in the McKinley tariff law, is one that worries our Democratic friends not a little. It knocks out all of their fine theories about the reciprocity clause of that law being merely attached for effect.—Saturday Night.

"I am a Democrat," said Governor Senator Hill; "I am an American," said Prophet Cleveland; "I am an Independent," said Senator-elect Kyle; all of which reminds us of the minister who, in extolling the wonders of creation, said: "The same hand that created the ant made the elephant; the hand that created me made a daisy."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Defalcations by Treasurers of Southern States have been so frequent within ten years that new ones are not only not surprising, but quite in the natural order of things. Delaware has been added to the long list of States that have suffered in this way, the discovery having been made that $589,000 of securities are missing from her Treasury. The responsibility of their loss rests with ex-State Treasurer Herbert, who has just retired from office. It is a pity that the securities were never turned over to him by his predecessor. It makes little difference to any but Delawareans who made away with them. But it is something more than a coincidence that in eight or nine States where black men are robbed of their votes, the State Treasuries have been robbed by Treasurers. The men whose public honesty and honesty are at so low an ebb as to let their steal votes do not stick at State Treasuries.—New York Press.

A squaw now holds the balance of power in the state senate. If the former legislature was a "Haw-buck," how would it do to call this one a squaw buck?—Midland Republican.

The Joint resolution to submit to the vote of the people the proposition to increase the attorney general's salary to $2,500, which passed the senate last week, was passed by the house Tuesday and given immediate effect so that it may be voted on April 6th.

Ellis Hutton was suddenly taken very ill in W. H. Gard & Son's store Tuesday night and had to be carried home and was not expected to live. He was shot through the body during his army service and the old wound has given him a good deal of trouble and will probably prove fatal yet.—West Branch Herald.

Sixteen Democrats helped by a fellow who knows no law but has a strong bellow ran things like riot but couldn't keep quiet the voice of the people who called their work yellow. One faded squaw woman from out the wood came down to see one with eyes full of blood and now the 16 are looking very green and wishing they'd lived in the time of the flood.—Det. Tribune.

Workingmen will please take notice that I have just received a full line of working shirts, at 45 cents. Pants for Boys at 40 cents, and good working pants for men for $1.00. Boys suits $1.50. All at Max Lewinsons.

Chas. A. Friedlander, the would-be state senator from the Alpena district by the grace of the Democratic steal, was a resident of Mackinac Island before the war and is well known to many of our older citizens. He was known as "Frenchy" on the Island and they did not recognize him until his squaw-wife claimed him. Capt. E. A. Bouclard knew him and his squaw-wife well and remembers the marriage of the couple.—Cheboygan Tribune.

A full line of Men's Working Pants for $1.00; Working Shirts 45 cents; Boys' Pants 40 cents; Boys' Suits at $1.50. The best Suits ever offered before at $3.00. All these bargains to be had at Max Lewinsons, next door to the Post Office.

The exhaustive article in the Det. Journal, headed "The McKinley Bill Triumphant," is a strong one, and unanswerable by any sort of free trade argument. It is not the theory of a political writer, but an honest statement of facts as they exist in actual truth, given by the dealers regardless of political affiliation. Such statements are readily accepted by thinking people as true.

Barney Bouck, of Horton township, caught a wild cat last week Thursday, that weighed 42 pounds and measured 4 feet in length. It was the largest specimen of the kind ever seen in the county.—West Branch Herald.

Friedlander, whom the democrats assisted to steal the seat of Senator Morse, has two wives, one of whom is an Indian. He was in the army and wrote his Indian wife that he had a notion to desert and leave the d—d army to fight for the niggers. What an antipathy he must have had to off-colored people after living with a squaw?

The total number of bushels of wheat marketed in February was 1,260,472 and in seven months—August to February—10,050,320 bushels or about 40 per cent more than in the same period last year of 1889 crop. The official bulletin says wheat is doing nicely, live stock was never better and the fruit outlook is most promising.—Det. Journal.

Washington, March 10.—Brazilian newspapers have been received at the department of state containing a decree by the president of Brazil declaring the ports of that country free and open to imports from the United States that were included in the recent reciprocity agreement, thus setting at rest the rumors that the Brazilian government did not recognize the validity of the treaty.

The platform adopted at the Democratic State Convention contains this very rotten plank:

"We indorse the action of the State Senate in fearlessly deciding the State contests for seats according to the testimony, and in unseating members holding these places by fraud, and giving their seats to the members chosen by the people."

After this shameless indorsement of a notorious political steal, let us hear no more whining from the democracy; let us hear no more howlings of rage in the name of the people. These pretenses of political virtue. By the incorporation of the above declaration in its platform, the democracy of Michigan has deliberately and publicly placed itself on record as indorsing and exulting in the most shameless prostitution of official functions that has disgraced the legislature of Michigan. The democracy in this State has deliberately cast aside the mask of honesty which it had temporarily assumed, and stands before the people as a confessed exponent and defender of political thievery.—Grand Rapids Eagle.

ROBBERS!

The Plundering Mine Corporations.

"Who enacted the specific tax law? The Republican party. What for? To help a lot of rich corporations to escape a just share of state taxation. What is the matter now? Why this howl? A Republican wants to make it 4 cents and a Democrat wants to do away with it entirely or give them a good dose of their own plundering."

The above extract is taken from the columns of the Lake Superior Democrat, a paper printed in the city of Ishpeming. Coming as it does, from the principal mining town of this Lake Superior region, it might have some weight in creating a wrong impression of the condition of things existing here. To have a paper thus publicly charge the mining companies of its own district with plundering and avoiding a just share of taxation would indicate a very depraved state of affairs, and would if true, create a revolution in the present condition. Happily the charge thus set forth by this exponent of democracy, are utterly void of truth. To be branded as plunderers is severe, but if a malicious libel, tending to create discord between capital and labor, and for the paltry purpose of attempting to make a few votes, the animus will be so clearly proved that the libel will be offset.

We need go no further than the confines of our own city to prove the falsity of the statement of the Democrat: Were the Cleveland mine assessed for state taxes as it was for county and municipal taxes, it would have saved $1,117.13, and that basis of taxation is considered the proper one. It is as all other property is taxed. There was no plundering in that!

The Lake Angeline would have saved $616.00.

The Lake Superior would be $300.91 better off had it been assessed as it should.

This does not indicate that the mining corporations are plunderers, or avoiding their rightful share of tax. It proves that the mining companies are unjustly taxed. And these are mines that contribute the expense for the presence of the city of Ishpeming, of the Lake Superior Democrat, of the entire population.

To open up and equip these mining properties means the expenditure of enormous sums of money. The smallest kind of a prospect will swallow up cash in a way that would frighten the average farmer, and very soon, in the history of such experiment.

Mr. Finn, the political and mining expert of the Democrat, who has given voice to the statement that the mining companies are plunderers, came here a few brief months ago to engage in gold mining as the representative of Grayling capitalists. In a few weeks he had exhausted the amount of money expended him for the finding and equipping of a gold mine. Another assessment was called, and that, too, was soon swallowed up in the endeavor to achieve success. Another and another was demanded and returned to this gentleman, and was put into holes in the ground, for which there is nothing more than the holes to show.

His friends, wearied of the golden spite that persisted in keeping just out of reach and there never was a more enthusiastic chaser after Dame Fortune than this same editor. There was every indication that pointed to success. The granite upon the one side, the serpentine upon the other, the diorite on all sides, the sun raising in the east and setting in the west, and all nature was full of promising assurance of success. But the men down at Grayling tired, and when the representative started to sink a shaft to recover diamond drill rods that had become fastened in a hole, the spirit of rebellion rose up, and the capitalists broke the dream of golden treasure squarely off in the middle. Then Mr. Finn turned his attention to the search for iron ore. The latter was so plentiful in our hills that it required but a bright preception and a pick to soon locate it, but there was one shaft sunk, and another, and the earth was filled full of test pits, and a railroad track was constructed, the whole face of fortune was smiling again and as inviting as a fragrant rose. But the paint, rock came in, and the jasper, and the water, and the greenbacks went out in a steady flow, and soon, again, the gentleman for whom he was to find a few paying mines grew weary and the work was stopped. And for all this some 20,000, or 30,000 or 40,000 of the dollars of someone were lost. There is nothing to show for them except a few scraps of paper bearing the picture of a gold mine, or an iron mine in the upper left-hand corner.

Now Mr. Finn has some idea of the cost of looking for a mine; leaving out the question of opening and equipping one after discovery. When he penned his little article charging that the mining companies are plunderers, he did so either without knowledge of the subject in hand, or else wished to hit the corporations a crack in the hope that he could, by this dishonest blow, create a little sympathy for himself. He did his utmost to become a part or the whole of a corporation for the mining and selling iron ore, squandering the money of his friends in his attempt in that direction, and now, that his efforts were fruitless, slaps the whole mining region in the face, while at the same time he pretends to be a representative of their interests. (?)

If this is democracy, then no wonder it is unpopular in this portion of the state. It deserves to be. The statement of the Democrat is an insult to everyone in this region.—Iron Ore.

The above extract would seem to indicate a difference of opinion in regard to legislation on mining interests, even in the city where everybody is interested in mines, as well as some personal difference.

Grand Army Officers.

At the second day's session of the state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Muskegon, the following officers were elected:

Commander—Col. C. S. Eaton, of Paw Paw.

Senior vice-commander—C. L. Brundage, of Muskegon.

Junior vice-commander—W. H. Marston, of Grand Rapids.

Medical director—Gideon S. Chase, of St. Louis.

Chaplain—H. S. White, of Milford.

The women's relief corps, also in session at the same place, selected the following officers for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. Sarah L. Brown, of Ithaca.

Senior vice-president—Mrs. Mina D. Kenzie, of Saginaw.

Junior vice-president—Mrs. Lois Dunn, of Ionia.

Treasurer—Mrs. Artemesia Brown, of Ithaca.

Chaplain—Mrs. Nancy White, of Eliot.

Delegates to the department council—Mrs. Barney, of Kalamazoo; Minnie Lewis, of Muskegon; Mrs. Hicks, of Morley; Stella M. Parker, of Battle Creek; and Susan C. Litchfield, of Petoskey.

Delegate at large—Mrs. R. S. Minor.

Delegates to the national convention—Agnes M. Wylie, of Albion, and Mrs. E. B. J. Curtis, of Adrian.

Take the whole farm into the house this month. Spread it out on the table, and make your plans and specifications for the coming season's work.

"I tell you if a man has come to that point where he is content, he ought to be put in a coffin, for a contented man is a sham! If a man has come to that state in which he says, 'I do not want to know any more, or do any more, or be any more,' he is in a state in which he ought to be changed into a mummy! Of all hideous things, a mummy is the most hideous; and of mummies, those are the most hideous that are running about the streets and talking!"

When Mr. Blaine first insisted on a reciprocity provision in the McKinley bill there were some wise leaders in the party, and even some editors, who thought he was pursuing an unwise course. Now that the scope and outcome of his plans is more clearly seen, it is conceded that he was wiser than they. If Secretary Blaine lives and will accept the nomination there is likely to be very little opposition.—Saginaw Courier-Herald.

Senator Wisner's reputation for being an adroit political thief has extended to the old Bay state. A democratic statesman from the latter commonwealth has taken the liberty to address him a communication, begging him to disclose the Michigan method for stealing republican senatorial seats. The Massachusetts democrats say they have a couple of republicans in the senate whom they would be glad to get rid of.—Bay City Tribune.

DIED.

At his home, in this village, March 12, JOHN O. HADLEY, aged 48 years.

Mr. Hadley was one of the first settlers in this village; was recognized as among our most public spirited citizens, ever ready to do all in his power to advance the general good and assist in the growth of the place. He was especially interested in the advancement of educational facilities, and we owe much to his labor for our present efficient school and its surroundings.

He was for some time in mercantile business, and for a time Post Master here, but turned his attention to the practice of law and real estate dealing. He was Prosecuting Attorney several terms, rendering efficient and satisfactory service.

He placed three additions to the village, which bear his name, and will perpetuate his memory.

His body was taken to Holly for interment in the family burial ground and was accompanied by O. J. Bell and Thomas Woodfield. At Bay City they were met by a special train and Bay City Commandery of Knights Templar, who had charge of the funeral service at the Presbyterian Church in Holly, after which the casket was deposited in the vault there, the terrible storm making it impossible to go to its final resting place.

Mrs. Hadley and daughter were accompanied by G. E. Owen, of Maple Forest, a relative and a life long friend and neighbor.

Our people mourn the loss of an esteemed citizen, and all extend earnest sympathy to the doubly bereaved wife and mother.

Mortgage Sale.

DEADLINE having been made in the forenoon of a certain mortgage bearing date March Twentieth, 1899, executed by James E. Weeks and Mary Weeks, his wife, to John J. Coventry, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Crawford County, State of Michigan, on March 29th, A. D. 1899, in Liber D of Mortgages, on page 191. The amount claimed to be due and unpaid thereon at the date of this notice, being the sum of Three Hundred and Eleven Dollars and Forty-two cents ($311.42) for principal and interest, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining due and unpaid by said mortgagee, or any part thereof, and whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Notice, Therefore is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale in said mortgage contained, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, on Saturday, May Twenty-third A. D. 1931, at one o'clock in the afternoon, at the front door of the Court House in the village of Grayling, (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court within the said county of Crawford), said mortgage will be foreclosed by the sale at public vendue, to the highest bidder, of the mortgaged premises therein described, the same being: The South half (S) of the North-east quarter (N. E. 1/4), and the North half of the South-east quarter (S. E. 1/4) of Township Thirty-two (32), in Township Twenty-eight (28) North of Range two (2) West, saving and excepting three acres, more or less, of land hereinafter described, and now occupied by said district number two (2) of said township of Maple Forest, said three acres and a portion of the North-west quarter (N. W. 1/4) of said North-east quarter (N. E. 1/4) of said Township Thirty-two (32), or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount due and unpaid on said mortgage at the date of this notice, with interest and the costs and expenses allowed by law, together with an Attorney fee of Thirty Dollars as provided in said mortgage. voiced to tools should have a dry floor to prevent rust. If this can be accomplished by thorough drainage and a thick coating of gravel it will, much facilitate the running of heavy mowers, plows, etc. The doors are also made large for this purpose, while the whole front of the tool shed may be thrown open by taking down the movable post between the two doors. A light partition separates the poultry house from the tool shed. —American Agriculturist.

Grindstone with Treadle Attachment.

The great objection to running a stone with a treadle is the "jerky" character of its revolutions, making it difficult to give a true level or a sharp edge to the tool that is being ground, to say nothing of the inconvenience to the operator. The arrangement shown in above illustration largely obviates these difficulties. A fly-wheel is attached at sufficient distance to one side to give freedom of movement when sharpening an ax or scythe. A wheel can frequently be found among the old iron of a hardware dealer, or can be purchased new for a small sum. It is important that it be of sufficient weight to give steadiness to the stone, and momentum to the revolution, so that little effort need be expended on the treadle to keep the stone in motion when once well under way. The stone itself should, of course, be hung perfectly true.

THE DAILY.

Good Butter Milk. With the introduction of patent machines, and the study of chemistry as applied to articles of food, butter making has certainly improved. A few farmers still adhere to the old notion that their old method is as good, if not superior, to the new-fangled notions. As an illustration of this I met a farmer a short time ago who was getting only sixteen cents a pound for his butter, while a few of his more progressive neighbors were receiving twenty-five and thirty. He thought it was all due to the trickery of the commission men, but the fact was, he ignored all the modern improvements in butter-making, packing and shipping. His butter when it reached the market was in a wretched condition, and the wonder is that it brought the price it did.

Farmers have got to keep abreast of the times if they wish to succeed. And it is no use of interposing their whims and asserting that their ways cannot be improved upon. The modern methods of dairying are interesting and instructive. The best butter shipped to the large cities is carefully made after some systematic process. The milk is first milked, the milk is taken to the churn, where it is strained into cans, and lowered into the cold water below. The water in the churn should never get much warmer than 55 degrees in summer and colder in winter. The milkings should be about twelve hours apart, and the milk remains in the churn between the milkings. The cans are then taken up and removed to the house, where it is skimmed at once. The cream is kept in some tin vessel until it acidifies, or commences to thicken. When new cream is put in the whole mass is stirred. At a temperature of 62 degrees the cream is churned to granulation. When the butter-milk is drawn off fresh water washes out all traces of buttermilk.

The butter is then ready to salt. Nothing but good dairy salt should be used, and if no more is put in than will dissolve there will not be much danger of salting the butter too much. The butter is held over by some for twelve hours or more for ripening before it is packed away, but others pack it as it comes at once with a common butter ladle. Butter that is to be transported to distant cities should not be packed in prints, for it will get mussy and unattractive-looking before its destination is reached. Good butter properly packed in this way will keep for a long time without any other preservative, and will sell at a good price. —L. D. Murray, in American Cultivator.

Proceeding Better Cows.

We believe in the purchase of good cows, and also improvement by breeding from better stock on the male side. But one method of improving the dairy is quite as important as either of these, and that is the selection of the best milkers. The improvement would be of little avail. That is to do everything to make your cows produce all the milk and butter that they are capable of doing. A cow while giving milk is at the same time bearing a calf. If her milk production is stimulated all that is possible she will be able to give a much larger quantity of milk. If she be neglected in any way she will give less milk, and her calf will be a poor cow, however she may be treated.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Curing Nervous Headache. The ordinary nervous headache will be greatly relieved, and in many cases entirely cured, by removing the waist of the dress, kneeling the head high upon the head of the bed, and while leaning over a basin, placing a sponge soaked in water as hot as it can be borne in the back of the neck. Repeat this many times, also applying the sponge behind the ears, and the strained muscles and nerves that have caused so much misery will be felt to relax and smooth themselves out, and the pain promptly vanishes in consequence. Every woman knows the aching face and neck generally brought about by kneeling the head high upon the head of the bed, and while leaning over a basin, placing a sponge soaked in water as hot as it can be borne in the back of the neck. Repeat this many times, also applying the sponge behind the ears, and the strained muscles and nerves that have caused so much misery will be felt to relax and smooth themselves out, and the pain promptly vanishes in consequence.

A Convenient Poultry and Tool House. On many farms the house is allowed to lay their eggs about the barn, under it, or in a fence corner, and to roost wherever they can find a foothold, resulting in the frequent loss of eggs, and in the vexatious sifting of wagons, tools.

POULTRY AND TOOL HOUSE.

and the premises generally. It is also true that there is frequently no place in which to store farm tools. The place is run in under the wagon, and the moving machine occupies one end of the barn during that portion of the year when not in use, while other tools find resting places, some within, and some out of doors. It hardly needs argument to show that such a course is both wasteful and inconvenient. Such a condition of things may be remedied by constructing a building like that shown in the illustration—a building that can be readily and cheaply put together by any one at all handy with tools. It may be placed on one side of the barnyard, thus affording a desirable windbreak. It may face either East or South. It could, of course, be made to face the West also. That portion farthest from the barn is used for a henhouse, since windows upon two sides can thus be secured. This portion, if not the whole shed, should be battened, shingle upon the outside, and lined with tarred paper on the inside. The floor should be as light as possible and covered with four or five inches of road dust or dried swamp muck, on which may be placed straw or other litter. The portion de-

CUTE THINGS IN CORK.

HOW CHILDREN CAN HAVE FUN WITHOUT EXPENSE.

The Way to Cut Cork—How to Make a Cork Ball Dog, a Tight-Rope Walker, and Many Other Things of Interest to Children.

The decoration of a small box in cork costs but little in labor and nothing in cash, particularly if a system of rosettes be devised, such as is here shown, says a writer in Golden Days.

Make a couple of hundred of these carved roundels and glue them on in two rows, and you will hardly believe the result is your handiwork.

"Carved roundels" sounds very artistic, indeed. Perhaps a sketch, showing how the roundels are made, may quell any alarm the phrase may have inspired. Take a few old bottle-corks and cut them like this:

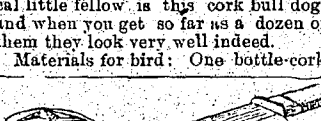

If you want four rays, make two cuts across; if you want six, make three in the manner shown by the artist where he has put the knife in.

The cork tree is said to be an oak yielding a valuable bark. It may not be inapplicable, therefore, to model out of cork an other source of bark more or less worthless.

Try a bulldog. His body is one cork; his head is another; his legs are four matches; his tail is another match; his nose, his mouth, his eyes are made with a red-hot skewer. To stick the head onto the body, use a double-pointed match, and thus give him the power of twisting his head round if you feel so inclined. A comical little fellow is this cork ball dog, and when you get so far as a dozen of them they look very well indeed.

Cut the body first. Cut the head out of one of the body fragments. Stick in the neck; stick on the head with the back in it; stick on the legs; stick the legs in the stand. Can anything be simpler?

Never chop a cork; cut it as if you were sawing it. Above all, do not use new corks; their roughness is their chief artistic merit.

To make a figure that will move, take four sticks for the arms and legs, cut a cork for his body and thrust in his limbs. Cut a round knob out of another cork—mortise in a nose, cut out a mouth, and with a skewer or hairpin, burn out his eyes and buttons.

The Beauty Of It

"Is that: Hood's Sarsaparilla gives such perfect satisfaction," writes a prominent druggist recently, after speaking of the large sales of this excellent medicine. We firmly believe there is nothing equal to

A State of Siege

How many people there are who regard the coming of winter as a constant state of siege. It seems as if the elements sat down outside the walls of health and now and again, led by the north wind and his attendant blasts, broke over the ramparts, spreading colds, pneumonia and death. Who knows when the next storm may come and what its effects upon your constitution may be? The fortifications of health must be made strong.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will aid you to hold out against Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Scrofula, General Debility, and all Anemic and Wasting Diseases, until the siege is raised. It prevents wasting in children. Palatable as Milk.

SPECIAL. Scott's Emulsion is non-secret, and is prescribed by the Medical Profession all over the world, because its ingredients are scientifically combined in such a manner as to greatly increase their remedial value.

CAUTION. Scott's Emulsion is put up in salmon-colored wrappers. Be sure and get the genuine. Prepared only by Scott & Bowne, Manufacturing Chemists, New York. Sold by all Druggists.

This country has 1,000,000 miles of telegraph wires—enough to reach forty times around the globe.

The Ladies Delighted.

The pleasant effect and the perfect safety with which ladies may use the liquid fruit laxative, Syrup of Figs, under all conditions make it the favorite remedy. It is pleasant to the eye and to the taste, gentle, yet effective in acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels.

Putri is said to be rotting in Oregon orchards. Small boys are scarce out there.

How's This? We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by taking KIDNEY CURE.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by him.

"August Flower"

How does he feel?—He feels blue, a deep, dark, unfading, dyed-in-the-wool, eternal blue, and he makes everybody feel the same way.—August Flower the Remedy.

How does he feel?—He feels a headache, generally dull and constant, but sometimes excruciating.—August Flower the Remedy.

How does he feel?—He feels a violent hiccupping or jumping of the stomach after a meal, raising bitter-tasting matter or what he has eaten or drunk.—August Flower the Remedy.

How does he feel?—He feels the gradual decay of vital power; he feels miserable, melancholy, hopeless, and longs for death and peace.—August Flower the Remedy.

How does he feel?—He feels so full after eating a meal that he can hardly walk.—August Flower the Remedy.

GRATEFUL-COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and assimilation, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has prepared his breakfast tables with a delicious beverage which may save many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle poisons, which have their way into the blood and circulate through the system, are expelled by this means, and the body is purified from all impurities. It is a most valuable food, and a most refreshing beverage. It is a most valuable food, and a most refreshing beverage. It is a most valuable food, and a most refreshing beverage.
